

Notes on Contributors/
Sur les Collaborateurs

Michael Baumgartner is a lecturer and research associate at the philosophy department of the University of ~~Bern~~, ~~Switzerland~~. His publications include an introduction to the philosophy of causation entitled Kausalität und kausales Schliessen (2004) and a number of papers on causation, regularity theories, interventionism, causal reasoning, and logical formalization.

Jeremy Byrd is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Tarrant County College, Fort Worth. His main philosophical interest is in action theory. He has published articles on moral responsibility, personal identity, and other related issues, both in the contemporary discussion and in the history of philosophy. These include articles in such journals as The Philosophical Quarterly, Synthese, The British Journal of the History of Philosophy, and Kant Studien. His work in progress includes a paper on Aristotle's discussion of fatalism in De Interpretatione and a paper on a recent development in the debate over free will and moral responsibility.

Ishtiyaque Haji is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Calgary. He has published on axiology, ethical theory, free will and moral responsibility, philosophical psychology, and philosophy of action.

Robert J. Howell is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Southern Methodist University. He has published widely in the philosophy of mind and epistemology, and is the co-author with Torin Alter of A Dialogue on Consciousness (Oxford, 2009) and The God Dialogues (Oxford, 2010).

Since 2006, Mark Peacock has held an appointment in the Department of Social Science, York University, where he is currently Associate Professor. He previously held appointments at Erfurt University and Witten/Herdecke University (both in Germany). Trained as an economist, he has written numerous articles on the philosophy of economics and is currently writing a book on the origins and development of money.

Notes on Contributors/
Sur les
Collaborateurs
continued/suite

Greg Scherkoske is Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Dalhousie University. His research interests include virtue theory, practical reason and Kantian ethics. His work in progress currently includes a book on integrity and an anthology of moral theory.

Amy M. Schmitter is Associate Professor and Graduate Chair at the University of Alberta. She works mostly in the history of early modern philosophy and the philosophy of art, but dabbles in a number of other areas.